

Experience Boston's Past:

Archaeology at the Rose Kennedy Greenway Inaugural Celebration!

When: Saturday, October 4, 2008
10:00 - 4:00

Where: The Rose Kennedy Greenway
in Boston's North End

Cost: FREE!

Explore Boston's history, using clues unearthed during the Big Dig!

See an actual millstone and learn how millstones worked

Check out a reconstruction of a seventeenth-century privy (outhouse)

Meet Katherine Nanny Naylor, whose house was excavated by Boston's archaeologists

Find out what archaeologists really do, and see the tools of the trade!

There will be an open house at the nearby City Archaeology Laboratory, which houses artifacts from many historic and prehistoric sites around Boston

Featuring:
Ellen Berkland, City Archaeologist, Environment Department
Boston Landmarks Commission
Massachusetts Historical Commission
Museum of Science
Archaeological Institute of America
Dig and Calliope Magazines

For more information, visit:
rosekennedygreenway.org and archaeological.org/education

