

NSF-REU Field school

TRAVEL to Hungary; visit regional museums and archaeological sites

JOIN a multicultural research team & receive mentorship from top scholars in the field of anthropology

LEARN field and lab techniques & conduct original research

DEVELOP skills for presenting and publishing original research & pave the way for future career options

Photo credits: Arpad Kurucz

APPLY @ <http://bakota.net>

Project dates:
JULY 3 - AUGUST 16

Applications due:
MARCH 2

Eight undergraduate students will be selected and provided with housing, food, travel to/from the project, and $500/week stipend (for 6 weeks) as part of this National Science Foundation Research Experience for Undergraduates (REU) sites project.

Project Directors:

Paul Duffy, Ph.D., American co-director - Julia Giblin, Ph.D., American co-director
Györgyi Parditka, M.A., Hungarian co-director - László Paja, Ph.D., Hungarian co-director

Questions?

Email: Julia.giblin@quinnipiac.edu