

The Public Archaeology Facility's
Community Archaeology Program presents:

ARCHAEOLOGY

for kids, teens,
and adults

Archaeology for kids, teens, and adults is a week-long program for anyone interested in archaeology. Participants will learn about the archaeological history of the Southern Tier. The program includes lectures, lab, and training followed by field time at a local archaeological site working alongside professional archaeologists from Binghamton University. Activities are modified to match the interests and abilities of each year's participants.

Information about the program can be found online at:

[https://www.binghamton.edu/
programs/cap/index.html](https://www.binghamton.edu/programs/cap/index.html)

Who: Kids (Grades 5&6) and Teens (Grades 7-10)
and Adults (ages 16+)

When: July 8-12, 2019 ; and July 15-19, 2019 (Teens only)

Where: Binghamton University

Cost: $205 per participant