Retrace the fabled Silk Road through Uzbekistan and Turkmenistan with archaeologist Aleksandr Naymark, following in the footsteps of silk traders who left China as early as 200 B.C. in great camel caravans for the 5,000-mile trek to the Mediterranean. This was also the road of Alexander the Great and Marco Polo, extending across vast deserts, mountains, and plains. Like the adventurers and merchants who have gone before us, we can anticipate breathtaking sights and a lively exchange of ideas and cultures along our route.

Archaeological Institute of America Lecturer & Host

University in New York. Born in Tashkent and schooled in Moscow, Aleksandr returned to Central Asia as a member of an archaeological expedition at the age of 14. Two years later he enrolled in Tashkent University's archaeology program, and in 1982 he graduated from Moscow University with an M.A. in Archaeology and an M.A. in Methods of Historical Source Studies. For eight subsequent years he worked in the Moscow Museum of Oriental Art, taking part in its Caucasian expeditions and directing its Central Asian expeditions. Between 1974 and 1991 Aleksandr participated in 31 historical excavations, 26 of which were in Central Asia; on eight of them he served as Director.

In 1991, Aleksandr immigrated to the United States, and the next year he enrolled in the Ph.D. program at Indiana University, Bloomington, where he earned a dual degree in Central Eurasian Studies and Art History. From 1997 to 1999, Aleksandr was a Horstman Fellow affiliated with the Eurasia Department of the German Archaeological Institute in Berlin. Since 1999 Aleksandr has been teaching at Hofstra University. He also taught as a guest lecturer at Humboldt University, Berlin, and at Columbia University, New York; and he held the Shama Fellowship at Oxford University three times. Aleksandr has authored more than one hundred publications on Central Asian archeology, art, and numismatics. He recently started a new archaeological project on Yer-Kurgan, the site of the capital of Sogdian Nakhshab principality, in modern Uzbekistan.

Dr. Aleksandr Naymark is an archaeologist and Professor of Fine Arts, Design, Art History at Hofstra

Itinerary

B= Breakfast • L= Lunch • D= Dinner

Friday, May 15, 2020 - Depart Home

Depart home on independent flights to Ashgabat, Turkmenistan.

Saturday, May 16 - Ashgabat, TURKMENISTAN

Arrive at Ashgabat International Airport (ASB) late this evening where you will be met and transferred to our elegant hotel in the heart of the city. Overnight at the Oguzkent Hotel (or similar) for two nights.

Sunday, May 17 - Ashgabat: AM at leisure | PM city tour | Welcome dinner

Enjoy a leisurely morning to rest and adjust to the time difference. Gather in the early afternoon for an introductory lecture followed by a city tour of Ashgabat. In spite of its location on a trade route, Ashgabat never achieved the status and influence of other Silk Road cities like Khiva or Bukhara. Originally known as Konjikala, the city was destroyed by Mongols in the 13th century, the Russians built a fortress on the site in the late 19th century, and by the early 20th century Ashgabat was a prosperous, flourishing city. The city was leveled by an earthquake in 1948, but recently has seen a boom in new construction. Our exploration of the city includes a visit to the National Museum of History and Ethnography, featuring exhibits of ancient artifacts, weapons, carpets, jewelry, and the country's flora and fauna. This evening gather for a welcome dinner at a local restaurant, featuring a musical performance. (B,D)

Monday, May 18 - Nisa | Anau | Fly to Mary

This morning, visit the site of the ancient Parthian Kingdom of Nisa, 15 miles outside of Ashgabat. Though Nisa was ruled by a succession of dynasties in the past two thousand years, it remained an important center in the ancient world until the 13th century, when the Mongols sacked it. Today, archaeological work continues at Nisa, declared a UNESCO World Heritage site in 2007. On the way back to Ashgabat, see the Kipchak Mosque, a $100-million-dollar mosque that accommodates

"The archaeological sites are the things that caused me to select this tour. The great buildings and ensembles of architectural interest were such a thrill that I will never forget."

- Charles, New York

10,000 people and is capped by a golden dome. Continue to the ruins of Anau, a site that was occupied from the Neolithic (ca. 4500 B.C.) to the medieval period (marked by the ruins of a 15th-century mosque), and where a Bronze Age town (2300 B.C.) was recently discovered. Catch a short evening flight from Ashgabat to Mary. Check-in to our hotel in Mary's center and gather for dinner this evening. Overnight at the Mary Hotel (or similar) for two nights. (B,L,D)

Tuesday, May 19 - Gonur-Depe | Mary

Today, make a full-day trip in 4x4 vehicles to the ancient town of Gonur-Depe, which was uncovered by Soviet archaeologists in the mid-20th century and is still undergoing excavation. Bronze Age ruins include strong fortress walls, and later occupation by Zoroastrians left behind a palace, a fire temple, and a necropolis. Return to Mary and enjoy dinner at a local restaurant. (B,L,D)

Wednesday, May 20 - Merv | Mary | Fly to Ashgabat

After an early breakfast at the hotel, take a morning excursion to the fertile oasis of Merv. Formed from the rich silt at the mouth of the Murghab River where it soaks into the Kara Kum (Black Sands) Desert, the oasis was an early Bronze Age center. In the 6th century B.C. Merv was the center of several succeeding civilizations, and became an important way station on the Great Silk Road between the 2nd and 13th centuries, when it was sacked and burned by the Mongols. The ruins of Merv were listed as a UNESCO World Heritage site in 1999 because of the wealth of ongoing information they offer regarding the evolution of urban centers. Afterwards, visit the Museum of History and Ethnography, housed in a 19th-century merchant's house, with displays of artifacts from Merv and Gonur-Depe as well as from other Turkmen archaeological sites. Take an afternoon flight back to Ashgabat and enjoy dinner at a local restaurant. Overnight at the Oguzkent Hotel (or similar). (B,L,D)

Thursday, May 21 - Fly to Tashauz | Kunya Urgench | Khiva, UZBEKISTAN

Transfer to the airport for a morning flight to Tashauz, in northern Turkmenistan. Drive to Kunya Urgench to visit the site of the ancient capital of Khorezm, which was razed by both Genghis Khan and Tamerlane. About half a mile south of the town lie the remains of the UNESCO-listed old city, including the 11th-century Kutlug-Timur Minaret, which was for many years the tallest in Central Asia. Also admire the domed hall of the Turabek Khanym Mausoleum, built for the daughter of one of the leaders of the Golden Horde. Continue on to the ancient Silk Road oasis of Khiva, crossing en route the Turkmen-Uzbek border, where we will change motor coach and driver. (Be prepared for lengthy administrative procedures at the border.) Arriving in Khiva, we check-in to our hotel and have dinner. Overnight at the Hotel Asia Khiva (or similar) for three nights. (B,L,D)

Bukhara, Uzbekistan

Friday, May 22 - Khiva walking tour

Spend the day exploring Khiva on foot. Today the living city is part museum town, part re-creation of life hundreds of years ago. Khiva's Old Town (Itchan Kala), a UNESCO World Heritage site, has been extensively preserved and restored, and highlights of our walking tour include Tash Hauli Palace, once the home of the khan and his four legal wives; the 9th-century Juma (Friday) Mosque, with an unusual wooden ceiling and 115 carved wood columns; and the Kunya Ark (Old Fortress), originally built in the 12th century as the khan's fortress and residence. The evening is at leisure, and our local guide will offer suggestions for dinner. (B,L)

"Turkmenistan is very untouristed, with wonderful archaeological sites and an amazing desert. Khiva is simply a magical place, while Paikent is well off the beaten track, and historically accurate." - Anne, Ontario, Canada

Saturday, May 23 - Ellik Kala | Khiva

Set out today on a survey of UNESCO World Heritage-listed Desert Castles of Ancient Khorezm. Drive into the desert surrounding Khiva to visit some of these ancient citadels in the region called Ellik Kala (Fifty Citadels). This chain of adobe fortresses guarded palaces, homes, warehouses, and sanctuaries dating from 2,000 years ago through medieval times. Return to Khiva for some free time in the afternoon and an independent dinner. (B,L)

Sunday, May 24 - Drive to Bukhara

Depart this morning for Bukhara, driving (approximately six hours) across long stretches of the Kyzyl Kum (Red Sands) Desert, once crossed by Silk Road camel caravans and comprised of dunes and saxaul bushes. Stop en route to view the Amu Darya River, which loosely parallels the Uzbek-Turkmen border, and have a boxed lunch. Arrive in Bukhara and check in to our hotel, located in the old town. This evening we gather and walk to a nearby restaurant for dinner. Overnight at the Lyabi House Hotel (or similar) for three nights. (B,L,D)

Monday, May 25 - Bukhara walking tour

Spend the day exploring the old town of Bukhara: a UNESCO World Heritage site, Central Asia's most ancient living city, and an excellent place to explore on foot. Begin at Labi-Hauz Plaza, at the center of the old town, and visit the nearby 16th-century Kukeldash Madrassah, the largest Koranic school in Central Asia. Continue on to Poi Kalon, also known as the Bukhara Forum, whose 12th-century assembly includes the Kalon Mosque and Minaret and the Mir-i-Arab Madrassah, surrounding an open plaza teeming with merchants and local vendors. Near the Kalon Mosque is the Ark Citadel, the original fortress of Bukhara, likely dating back two thousand years or more. The current structure has been built and rebuilt on the same site throughout its history. Also visit the Ismail Samani Mausoleum, the 10th-century resting place of the founder of the Samanid Dynasty, which was buried under shifting desert sands and not re-discovered until the 20th century. Dinner tonight will be at a local restaurant. (B,L,D)

Tuesday, May 26 - Paikent | Bukhara

This morning we visit the Bukhara Oasis and site of the ancient city of Paikent (Poykent), whose 15-foot-thick fortress walls date back to the 9th century B.C. Conquering Arabs destroyed Paikent in 706 B.C. Tour the small site museum with one of the archaeologists working at the site (schedule permitting). Afterwards, drive a short distance outside of the city to visit the Summer Palace of the last Emir of Bukhara. Called "the Palace of Moon and Stars," the Summer Palace is something of a showpiece, as it was a refuge for emirs from the city. Explore its Museum of National Crafts and admire the vivid suzani, or embroidered coverlets, for which Uzbekistan is known. Return to central Bukhara for lunch at a local restaurant and an afternoon at leisure. This evening, attend a costume show in the teahouse of a local madrassah, with a traditional dinner afterward. (B,L,D)

Wednesday, May 27 - Shahrissabz | Samarkand

Depart Bukhara this morning and drive to Samarkand, stopping along the way in Shahrissabz, the birthplace of Tamerlane. In Shahrissabz we have lunch and see the ruins of the 14th-century Aq Saray (White Palace), one of Tamerlane's most ambitious projects and today a UNESCO World Heritage site; Dorut Siadat ("Seat of Might and Power"), built by Ulug Bek as a mausoleum for his favorite son; and Kok Gumbaz ("Blue Dome"), a 15th-century mosque that was recently restored for the city's 2,700th anniversary. Continue on to Samarkand and visit the Afghan-Uzbek Silk Carpet Factory, where we learn about the process of dying and weaving the carpets. This evening, check-in to our hotel and get settled before gathering for dinner. Overnight at the Emir Han Hotel (or similar) for two nights. (B,L,D)

Thursday, May 28 - Samarkand walking tour

Set out this morning to explore perhaps the most well-known of Silk Road towns: Samarkand, a fabled oasis on the fringes of the Kyzyl Kum Desert, which has been settled since the 6th century B.C. Tamerlane made it his capital city and gathered the finest architects, builders, and artisans of the time to enhance its beauty. Modern Samarkand is built on the ruins of ancient Afrosiab. We visit Registan Square, Samarkand's centerpiece and most recognizable landmark, where three emblematic madrassahs (Ulug Bek, Tillya-Kori, and Shir Dor) frame the square. In its reconstruction, the square maintains the majesty that it radiated through the ages. Not far away is the Gur-Emir Mausoleum, the final resting place of Tamerlane. It was originally built for his grandson, after the latter's death at the turn of the 15th century. Wander the row of tombs and mausoleums collectively called Shah-i-Zinda ("place of a living king") stretching from modern Samarkand to the dusty slopes at the edge of what was ancient Afrosiab. Pay a visit to the remains of Ulug Bek's Observatory, one of the most advanced observatories of the ancient world; and stop at the Bibi Khanum Mosque, built to be the largest mosque in the Islamic world. This evening we attend a performance by a local dance troupe before dining at a local restaurant. (B,L,D)

Friday, May 29 - Samarkand: Institute of Archaeology & Afrosiab History Museum | Drive to Tashkent

Check out of our hotel this morning and pay a visit to the Institute of Archaeology to meet with a local archaeologist (schedule permitting). Afterwards, drive

"I particularly enjoyed the experience of sharing two weeks together in a new and fascinating land, having an amazingly complex and rich history, with 14 fellow travelers who were...interested in learning at a much deeper level about the new land and people around them."

just outside of the city to the Afrosiab History Museum, located on the site of ancient Afrosiab where excavations began under Russian rule in the 19th century (and still take place today). The Museum's collection includes pottery and tile found among the excavated walls of the ancient city. Drive to Tashkent, arriving in time for dinner. Overnight at the Lotte City Hotel Tashkent Palace (or similar) for two nights. (B,L,D)

Saturday, May 30 - Tashkent city tour | PM at leisure | Farewell dinner

Spend the morning exploring highlights of Tashkent, Uzbekistan's capital city. A major caravan crossroads, it was taken by the Arabs in A.D. 751 and by Genghis Khan in the 13th century. Today, it is a mixture of wide, tree-lined boulevards, 20th-century Soviet buildings, and traces of the old city with mud-walled houses, narrow winding lanes, mosques, and madrassahs. Start at the Museum of the History of the People of Uzbekistan, founded in 1876, which features an archaeological exhibit containing fragments of mural paintings from the Afrosiab settlement and stone sculptures from the Fergana Valley. Drive past Independence Square on the way to Old Town Tashkent. Stroll through a labyrinth of 19th-century mud-walled houses to Hast Imam Square, where can be found some of the city's oldest monuments, including the 16th-century Qaffal Shashi Mausoleum and Baraq-Khan Madrassah, plus the early 20th-century Tilla Sheikh Mosque, which houses the Uthman Koran, considered by Sunni Muslims to be the world's oldest Koran. Continue on to the 16th-century Kukeldash Madrassah, part of an ensemble that marked the center of the old town. After lunch enjoy a free afternoon before gathering for a festive farewell dinner at a local restaurant. (B,L,D)

Sunday, May 31 - Tashkent | Fly home

Take an early morning transfer to Tashkent International Airport (TAS) for flights homeward.

What to Expect

This program is strenuous, and you must be in good physical health to participate. There will be long drives on some days, and some very early morning departures from the hotels to make the most of the cooler morning air during site visits and avoid excess time exposed to mid-day heat. There will be a significant amount of walking (including on uneven ground, up hills, and on very old paved flooring), a lot of stairs (some steep with tall, uneven steps), and you may have to stand for some long periods on hard surfaces in hot weather. Note that for our border crossing into Uzbekistan on May 21st there is no portage service, and for 0.6 miles you will have to walk and trundle your own luggage (including hand baggage), so we advise you not to travel with more than you can handle independently under such conditions.

All participants are expected to be physically active and not be an impediment to others on excursions. To reap the full rewards of this adventure, travelers must be able to walk at least two to three miles a day, unassisted, keeping up with fellow travelers. If the tour manager decides that a participant cannot visit a site safely or in a timely manner, their judgment will be final. Where possible, an alternate activity may be suggested; additional costs may apply. If you have any questions about your ability to participate, we suggest that you visit your personal physician with this brochure in hand and discuss whether or not this program is appropriate for you.

While the accommodations are as comfortable as possible for the region, they will vary from four-star properties to relatively basic, simple hotels. It is important to keep in mind that facilities in Central Asia are generally not up to most North American travelers' standards. Services are improving, but the infrastructure is not yet fully developed and you may encounter problems with plumbing, bureaucratic service, road conditions, unpaved sidewalks, variety of locally-available foods, availability or quality of public restrooms, etc. Flexibility, a sense of humor, enjoyment of group travel, and a willingness to accept cultural differences and local standards of amenities are essential components to the full appreciation of this trip.

In May, the weather is somewhat dry with occasional rain. Average daytime temperatures are in the mid-80s to mid-90s F. Evening temperatures can dip down to the mid-60s to mid-70s F.

Complete pre-departure details, what to bring with you, and what to expect will be sent to participants.
