MADAGASCAR to MAURITIUS

Islands of the Indian Ocean aboard the MS Serenissima

JANUARY 15 TO 31, 2020 Featuring IAN TATTERSALL
Curator Emeritus in the Division of Anthropology of the American Museum of Natural History

EXPLORE Madagascar from our comfortable and convenient home base, MS Serenissima, reaching intimate sites large cruise ships cannot.

SEE lemurs up close in their natural habitat and learn about conservation efforts to protect these incredible primates.

CRUISE into dramatic Diego Suarez, set on a stunning natural harbor and housing an eclectic cultural mix of inhabitants.

VISIT the Durrell Breeding Program to learn about efforts to protect the ploughshare tortoise, one of the world's most threatened breeds.

SNORKEL in the waters surrounding Nosy Tanikely, known for its shallow coral reef teeming with fish and turtles.

TAKE IN the beauty of Masoala National Park, a diverse virgin rain forest that hosts half of all flora and fauna found on Madagascar.

DEAR TRAVELER,

YOU ARE INVITED TO JOIN paleoanthropologist Ian Tattersall on an extraordinary cruise from Madagascar to Mauritius, aboard the elegant, 53-cabin MS Serenissima. While archaeological sites are not the focus of this AIA-sponsored program, this is a splendid opportunity to travel and learn about human origins with Dr. Tattersall, our AIA lecturer and host, who is one of the world's leading experts on the hominid fossil record. Ian is a specialist in the biology and evolution of the primates of Madagascar, has carried out extensive fieldwork on the living lemur fauna of Madagascar, and also has done field research on the macaque monkeys of Mauritius.

Madagascar is a global treasure of nature: often called the "eighth continent," it is the fourth-largest island in the world. It is home to 5% of the world's plant and animal species that have developed in splendid isolation and exist nowhere else on Earth. With no fewer than six different climatic zones, the island's array of flora and fauna includes baobab trees; more than 300 species of reptiles; and more than 200 species of birds. Madagascar's more than 100 known species of lemur are some of the most extraordinary animals you could ever hope to see, and our AIA lecturer and host has a lemur named for him (Propithecus tattersalli)! Dr. Tattersall is an exceptionally engaging and lucid scholar who will share insights on human evolution through lectures and informal conversations. He will be joined by other onboard experts and, through illustrated talks and informal discussions, they will help to increase your understanding and appreciation of these beautiful and unique environments.

To maximize your time in Madagascar, this expedition begins with a private charter flight from Johannesburg, South Africa, to Toliara, Madagascar, thus avoiding the two-day crossing by ship of the Mozambique Channel. Enjoy 11 days exploring Madagascar's numerous marine reserves and national parks. Then arrive at Réunion Island, a paradisiacal French outpost, to explore its white-sand beaches, spectacular dormant volcanoes, and vibrant Creole character. Disembark on the island of Mauritius, taking in the island's cultural riches and geologic wonders. Choose from two optional, pre-cruise extensions in South Africa, one with a paleoanthropology focus that includes Sterkfontein Caves and is accompanied by Ian Tattersall, and the other a safari near Kruger National Park; and/or choose a post-cruise opportunity to lengthen your stay on Mauritius.

This program is limited to just 85 travelers and is co-sponsored by other organizations, so I urge you to reserve your cabin on the MS Serenissima today. Call AIA Tours at (800) 748-6262 or email aia@studytours.org.

Sincerely,

R. Todd Nielsen

THE ARCHAEOLOGICAL INSTITUTE OF AMERICA AND THE AIA TOURS PROGRAM

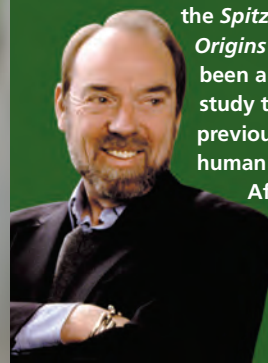

The Archaeological Institute of America (AIA) is the oldest and largest archaeological organization in North America. The AIA seeks to educate people of all ages about the significance of archaeological discovery. For more than a century the AIA has been dedicated to the encouragement and support of archaeological research and publication, and to the protection of the world's archaeological resources and cultural heritage. By traveling on an AIA tour, you directly support the AIA while personally gaining the benefit of the AIA's network of scholars and world-wide contacts.

STUDY LEADER

Archaeological Institute of America lecturer and host IAN TATTERSALL

is an internationally recognized authority on paleoanthropology, primatology, evolutionary biology, and evolutionary theory. A specialist in the biology and evolution of the primates of Madagascar, Ian has a lemur named for him (Propithecus tattersalli). Currently an Emeritus Curator in the Division of Anthropology at the American Museum of Natural History, he was born in England and raised in East Africa. Ian's interest in the Malagasy primates was first kindled in 1969 when he visited Madagascar to study extinct lemurs. He has subsequently carried out extensive fieldwork on the living lemur fauna of both Madagascar and the Comoro Islands, and has also done field research on the macaque monkeys of Mauritius.

Ian has written extensively for both academic and popular audiences; his recent books include The Accidental Homo sapiens: Genetics, Behavior, and Free Will (2019, with Rob DeSalle), The Strange Case of the Ricketty Cossack and Other Cautionary Tales from Human Evolution (2015), and Masters of the Planet: The Search for Our Human Origins (2012). He has also written for the AIA's Archaeology magazine ("Rethinking Human Evolution," 52:4.22-25) as well as for Scientific American and Natural History magazines. Ian lectures widely at venues around the world and he has curated several major exhibits at the American Museum of Natural History, including Madagascar: Island of the Ancestors (1989) and two permanent exhibits: the Hall of Human Biology and Evolution (1993) and the Spitzer Hall of Human Origins (2007). He has long been a popular lecturer on study tours, including four previous AIA Tours exploring human origins in southern Africa, prehistoric cave art in Spain and France, and Madagascar and Mozambique.
