UC Berkeley graduate students kick off the academic year at our annual Reports from the Field event, reporting on their summer research and excavation experiences at various sites across the globe. Alec Apodaca will be discussing a Native American archaeological site in the San Vicente Redwoods that was damaged during post-fire work related to the CZU Lightning Fire complex of 2020. The damage exposed previously unknown portions of this ancient habitation site that can be studied to learn about how Native people stewarded sources of food, raw material, and habitats in the interior areas, which can be compared to coastal areas and is directly relevant to ongoing historical ecology project between Amah Mutsun Tribal Band and UC Berkeley researchers. Jordan Brown will discuss The Erbil Plain in northern Iraq, which lies at the edge of the rainfall farming zone. Here, five millennia of intensive settlement have seen diverse approaches to water management. Some of these strategies appear to have affected the hydrology of the Plain in lasting ways, mitigating or exacerbating the impact of climatic shifts and constraining the options available to subsequent inhabitants. By utilizing remote-sensing tools and computer-aided analytical techniques, which facilitate the collection and systematization of such data and form the building blocks of a "telescoping" approach to regional geoarchaeology, Jordan will discuss the large-scale and long-term interactions between social and natural forces. David Wheeler will share his experience doing fieldwork and museum research in Greece for the last 18 months in the midst of the Coronavirus pandemic. During that time, he excavated a palatial tholos at Pylos during Greece's first national lockdown, helped supervise rescue excavations at the Mycenaean cemetery of Aidonia, and initiated several 3D scanning projects for Berkeley's Nemea Center for research, outreach, and classroom use in the post-Covid era.

---

Sacred Landscapes in Ancient Arcadia

Tuesday, October 5th, 2021, 7:00 pm PDT
Virtual Lecture

Dr. Mary E. Voyatzis
Professor Emerita of Anthropology and Classics at the University of Arizona

The mountainous region of Arcadia, situated in the heart of the Peloponnese, has attracted considerable attention since antiquity. Many ancient authors described the region in detail, describing its rich mythology, unusual gods, numerous sanctuaries, engaging history, diverse geography, and the fact that its inhabitants were indigenous, living there even before the moon, and the original inhabitants of Greece. During the Renaissance, Arcadia was depicted in art as a beautiful, pristine, and magical place with unspoiled wilderness. By the 19th c. European travelers were exploring the region, and later in the century archaeologists began excavating its various sites. Today we shall look at some recently excavated sites in Arcadia, focusing on two where the speaker has been involved, the Sanctuary of Athena Alea at Tegea, and the Sanctuary of Zeus on Mt. Lykaion. We shall see how archaeological discoveries have contributed significantly to our understanding of the history of Arcadia and enhanced our appreciation of this enchanting mountainous region.

---
Humans and Alcohol: The Archaeology of a Deeply Entangled Relationship

Thursday, November 4th, 2021, 7:00 pm PDT
In-person (370 Dwinelle Hall) and/or virtual lecture (more information to come)

Dr. Michael Dietler
Professor of Anthropology and Social Sciences at the University of Chicago

Attitudes about alcohol exhibit a striking degree of ambivalence. On one hand, drinking alcohol is a broadly accepted and very popular activity around the world. Indeed, alcohol is by far the most widely and abundantly consumed psychoactive agent. Current estimates place the number of active consumers at over 2.4 billion people worldwide (or roughly a third of the earth’s population). Yet, alcohol has also sometimes acquired a bad reputation as a dangerous substance and caused several mass panics. Some governments and religions have even tried to ban it altogether. Archaeological evidence shows that the human relationship with alcohol is by no means recent: the practice of drinking has a very deep antiquity on multiple continents and the biological adaptation that enables humans and a few close primates to metabolize alcohol goes back at least 10 to 12 million years. This lecture presents an anthropological framework for understanding the social and cultural significance of alcohol and examines the archaeological evidence for drinking in the past, with particular attention to the nature and consequences of the wine trade in the ancient Mediterranean.

Other Events and Lectures of Interest in Fall 2021

AHMA Noon Colloquium Series:
https://ahma.berkeley.edu/news-events/ahma-colloquium

Ancient Arts Council Lectures:
For virtual lectures, Zoom links to follow at:
https://www.ancientartcouncil.org/programs
August 28th, 2021, 10:00 am - 3:00 pm PDT on Zoom
Symposium | Convivium: AD 79: When Time Froze in Pompeii

- Dr. Paul Roberts, Director General of Museums in Italy, Ministry of Culture
  Last Supper in Pompeii - the Exhibition, its Story and its Legacy

- Dr. Joanne Berry, Sackler Keeper of the Department of Antiquities, Ashmolean Museum of Art and Anthropology, University of Oxford
  People of Pompeii

- Dr. Kenneth Lapatin, Associate Professor, Classics, Swansea University
  Myths of Pompeii

- Dr. Massimo Osanna (Keynote Speaker), Curator of Antiquities, The J. Paul Getty Museum
  Etruscan Pompeii

October 2nd, 2021, 2:00 pm - 3:30 pm PDT on Zoom
Dr. Stephen Harvey, Stoney Brook University
TBD

November 6th, 2021, 2:00 pm - 3:30 pm PDT on Zoom
Dr. Mary Louise Hart Curator, Antiquities, The J. Paul Getty Museum
Imagining Oedipus: Art, Myth, and Performance

December 4th, 2021, 2:00 pm - 3:30 pm PDT on Zoom
Directed and presented by Carey Perloff Artistic emerita, American Conservatory Theater
Rehearsed Reading of Oedipus at Colonos by Sophocles

American Research Center in Egypt Lectures:
For virtual lectures, Zoom links to follow at:
https://www.arce.org/calendar

August 21st, 2021, 12:00 pm EDT on Zoom
Dr. Dimitri Laboury; Research Director at the Belgian National Foundation for Scientific Research at the University of Lièg
ARCE DC: The Workshop of Thutmose, Amarna’s Royal Sculptor

September 11th, 2021, 12:00 pm CDT on Zoom
Dr. Marie-Lys Arnette; ERC Locus Ludi, University of Fribourg, Switzerland
ARCE Chicago: The Egyptian Game of Senet, from the New Kingdom to Roman Time: Funerary Destiny, Astronomy, and Medicine

September 12th, 2021, 3:00 pm PDT on Zoom
Dr. Jeremy Pope; College of William and Mary
ARCE Northern CA: Hands unto Ethiopia: The First African Americans to Visit Nubia

September 18th, 2021, 3:30 pm EDT on Zoom

Dr. James Hoffmeier, Emeritus Professor, Trinity International University Divinity School

ARCE PA: Reconstructing Egypt’s East Frontier Defense Network in the New Kingdom

October 2nd, 2021, 1:00 pm CDT on Zoom

Dr. Aidan Dodson; University of Bristol

ARCE Chicago: Amarna Enigmas: Or, why is there so little consensus about the late 18th Dynasty?

October 16th, 2021, 3:30 pm EDT on Zoom

Dr. Anne Austin, Asst. Professor of Anthropology, University of Missouri St. Louis

ARCE PA: Revealing the Practice of Tattooing in Ancient Egypt

For more information on:

AHMA Noon Colloquium Series, e-mail: c.m.hall@berkeley.edu or darcytuttle@berkeley.edu

Ancient Arts Council events, information, and/or membership, see

https://www.ancientartcouncil.org or email ancientart@famsf.org

American Research Center in Egypt (ARCE), Northern California Chapter events, see

https://www.arce-nc.org/

NEWSLETTERS BY EMAIL:

The SF Society newsletter is available for download from:

https://www.archaeological.org/society/san-francisco/. This website also lists the AIA lectures.

2021-2022 AIA Officers:

Kim Shelton, President
David Wheeler, Vice President/Treasurer
Louise Chu, FAMSF Liaison
Bekah McKay, Program Coordinator
Elizabeth Keyser, Publicity Chair
Christian Hall, Entertainment Chair

AIA Executive Advisory Committee:

James Barter, Elizabeth S. Peña

For information on Fall AIA events or your membership, contact Bekah McKay (bekahmckay@berkeley.edu) or Kim Shelton (sheltonk@berkeley.edu)