Archaeology Field School

Istituto Lorenzo de' Medici and CAMNES run a four-week Archaeology Field School in Tuscania, located in the Region of Lazio (Central Italy).

The CAMNES-LdM Archaeology Field School

The LdM-CAMNES Archaeology Field School is an incredible journey in an inspiring environment, where students play an active role in the excavation of Etruscan necropolises, the cities of the dead. Under the direction of a team of professional archaeologists, students acquire archaeological methods, while gaining a firsthand look at archaeological fieldwork and a new understanding of the ancient Etruscan culture.

During this intensive program, participants learn about the ancient Etruscan Civilization and work side by side with Italian university students, taking part in a real excavation, where they dig and uncover 2500-year-old Etruscan artifacts and structures.

Through field trips and by examining the abundance of materials found in this region, students learn about the life of the ancient Etruscans from archaeological evidence and literary sources.

The Etruscan Archaeological Sites in Tuscania

The archaeological area of Tuscania is composed by several Etruscan necropolises distributed all around the modern town. It is believed that the different necropolises belonged to the same Etruscan city, located in the archaeological area of Colle di San Pietro (San Pietro hill).

LdM started to investigate two newly discovered "Cities of the dead", in 2005, with the support of CAMNES since 2011 belonging to the Hellenistic period (4th-1st cent. BCE). The project then proceeded in 2020 to explore a new necropolis, Sasso Pinzuto, starting from 2021 in partnership with the University of Naples Federico II.

The Necropolis of Sasso Pinzuto covers a very large area where hundreds of tombs have been discovered in the past. The archaeological project, hence the Field School, focuses on a series of hypogeum tombs belonging to the 6th century BCE, directly excavated in the tufa rock. The Etruscans buried their dead in these underground chambers and deposited their belongings when celebrating funerary rituals. Many tombs had been violated over the years; however, a few have been left partially intact revealing a good number of ancient artifacts still in position.

The first large tomb that we excavated held several ceramic vessels with decorated Greek mythological scenes, which LdM students and CAMNES are currently restoring in the 'Archaeology Workshop' course in Florence.

Tuscania - Further Details

Participants stay in Tuscania, a historical hill-top town in Lazio (only 40 minutes from Rome), renowned for its medieval charm and situated in the heart of ancient Etruria. This area was inhabited by the Etruscans and covered the region that now comprises Tuscany and parts of Lazio and Umbria.

The Etruscan civilization flourished during the 7th and 6th centuries BCE and declined in the 3rd century BCE, when the Roman conquest caused it to fade.

During their stay, participants have the opportunity to visit together with their instructors the most important sites of the Etruscan civilization and the nearby area.

Weekends are the perfect chance to explore the countryside and discover the castles, towns and the amazing aspects of this region, including the warm Mediterranean seaside about 30 minutes away or the Bolsena Lake just 18 minutes away.

General Information

Arrival: Thursday, July 4th, 2024

Departure: Thursday August 1st, 2024

Location: Sasso Pinzuto, Tuscania (VT), LdM Tuscania, Italy

Application Deadline

May 15th, 2024

Outline of Schedule

In the first part of the course, participants take classes that introduce them to the civilization of the ancient Etruscans as well as to basic archaeological theory and practice. Students also visit a number of local Etruscan sites and have field trips to some world famous Etruscan sites, such as Tarquinia, Cerveteri, Tuscania and the Archaeology Museum of Villa Giulia in Rome. During the final three weeks of the course students participate in the excavation of important Etruscan burial sites, it is therefore requested full cooperation and hard fieldwork labour. Participants must bear in mind that working days go from Mondays to Fridays.

Prerequisites and Requirements

- An up-to-date tetanus inoculation.
- International Medical/travel insurance.
- It is of paramount importance that every participant communicates to the enrollment offices any allergies, food intolerances or any kind of medical issues upon enrollment.
- No prerequisites and no experience of archaeology or knowledge of Italian are needed. The principal qualifications include a strong academic record, a desire to learn more about archaeology and the Etruscan civilization, and an enthusiasm to dig.
- Participants must bear in mind that the archaeological field school of Tuscania is a full-time workshop within a professional archaeological research project that includes a five day per week involvement including lessons, archaeological field activities and visits. Participants have Saturdays and Sundays off.
- The schedule includes a lot of fieldwork and walking during field trips. While at the archaeological site, fieldwork requires digging, stooping, bending and exposure to sun, wind and/or rain. This field school is not recommended to participants with allergies to sun and/or dust.

Equipment and Materials

Participants are responsible for proper usage and storage of their assigned tools and materials. Each participant is required to personally provide the following equipment, necessary to work on the archaeological dig:

- Simple, comfortable clothing for working in hot weather
- Long trousers
- Safety shoes (i.e., with metal reinforcement)
- Good-quality 100% cotton hat
- Sunscreen
- Bug spray
- Water bottle
- Working Gloves
- A notebook to be used for the Activity Journal.

Participants must bear in mind that all above-mentioned equipment and materials are mandatory and must be brought from home. If participants are found devoid of any of these items, the director of the project may deny excavation access.

Further details will be given during the first class.

Participants will be provided with necessary work and study materials, covered by the tuition.
