

CALADINHO ARCHAEOLOGICAL PROJECT

July 8 - 29, 2023

Research

The excavations uncover the remains of a fortified structure related to the colonization of the region in the 1st century BCE. Caladinho is the first example of one of these small, fortified, rural structures to be systematically excavated in the Alentejo region of Portugal.

Field School

Field school students will receive instruction in excavation techniques, processing and handling of artifacts, and the recording of exposed areas and features. No prior archaeological experience is necessary.

• • • •
Tuition costs $1800 for 3 weeks, and includes room, board, and the cost of transportation in Portugal.

Application deadline:
