ABOUT US

A FOREWORD BY PROF. DAVID AUSTIN, SFAFS DIRECTOR

The Strata Florida Archaeology Field School (SFAFS) opened its doors (and trenches) for the first time in 2019 and we are now in our second year of excavations. We are fortunate to have received a grant from Allchurches Trust to support our first three years of operation. Come and join us for what will be an exciting year!

The school will offer a fully accessible training programme and include a wide variety of archaeological excavation and survey techniques; from understanding how to correctly use a trowel through to the collection of geophysical data for archaeological mapping. In addition to field-based learning, the school will have a weekly programme of field trips to local sites and monuments and talks from experts on topics of local historical and archaeological interest.

Our mission is to share Strata Florida's unique history, archaeology, heritage and links to Welsh culture, with as diverse an audience as possible, including members of the public, students, volunteers, veterans and others.

The SFAFS will be delivered by the Strata Florida Trust in partnership with The Prince's Foundation, Breaking Ground Heritage, Allchurches Trust, Sacred Landscapes Research Project and the University of Wales Trinity St David.

STRATA FLORIDA

Strata Florida Abbey (Abaty Ystrad Fflur in Welsh) is a captivating, evocative and internationally significant site located in the heart of Wales. Known affectionately as the Westminster Abbey of Wales, it had its heyday in the 12th and 13th centuries and was once an important centre of culture, religion and trade, with connections spreading far across the Welsh landscape.

The Cistercian monks who founded the abbey were quite the entrepreneurs, taking advantage of the rural location to become self-sufficient, farming thousands of sheep and building roads and bridges to allow pilgrims and traders to visit the site. The abbey would have been a very striking and imposing building and you are still, today, able to admire the majesty of its iconic, carved west doorway. The plan of the church can still be clearly traced and, rather remarkably, some of the original richly decorated tiles from the abbey have survived intact. One of them, 'Man with the Mirror', depicts a medieval gentleman admiring himself in a mirror!

One of the foremost early Welsh historical sources, the Brut y Tywysogion, was written at Strata Florida and the site has many important connections with Welsh culture and identity. Dafydd Ap Gwilym, Wales's most famous medieval poet, is buried in the churchyard, as are several medieval Princes of Wales.

Today, Strata Florida is made up of a variety of different elements, from the 12th century abbey ruins now in the guardianship of Cadw; to the early 19th century St Mary's church built on the site of several original abbey chapels; through to the adjoining 17th century grade II and II* listed Mynachlog Fawr farmstead.

Working in partnership with The Prince's Foundation, the Strata Florida Trust is embarking on a journey to celebrate the site's rich history by developing a visitor attraction, training centre and field school and restoring the grade II listed farmstead.

By taking part in the excavation and survey work at SFABS you will be making a direct contribution to the development of the Strata Florida Centre!

ARCHAEOLOGICAL EXCAVATION & SURVEY

The 2020 field season will focus on excavating the farmyard and doing wider landscape surveys and ground-truthing. Led by our fully qualified and very experienced staff, we will be excavating in the yard of Mynachlog Fawr farm whose historic buildings the Strata Florida Trust and The Prince's Foundation are working to conserve and put to new use. The farm was built over the remains of other structures, some of which were part of a gentry house, outbuildings and gardens which go back to the early years of the abbey's foundation in the Middle Ages. You could be part of the team that unearths these structures for the first time in hundreds of years and record them for future generations! Trial excavations have shown the complexity of these remains which will be further explored by the field school participants.

We shall also be undertaking geophysics and other survey work in the wider precinct areas and testing some of the features we find with small 'ground-truthing' excavations to discover their nature and date. All of the excavation and survey findings will be documented in a comprehensive report written by SFAFS staff. As a participant you can have a copy of this report.

MAKING ARCHAEOLOGY INCLUSIVE

Breaking Ground Heritage (BGH) is the SFAFS's social inclusion partner. BGH specialise in promoting well-being and rehabilitation through heritage-based activities, specifically to individuals with severe physical/psychological challenges (largely but not exclusively veterans). Operating on an inclusive mentoring model here at Strata Florida, BGH will be broadening their reach and engaging with people in civilian communities suffering from exclusion or mental/physical health issues. This proved incredibly successful in the first year with participant feedback such as 'I felt accepted and valued for what I was able to contribute rather than isolated because of what I could not.'

If you've always wanted to get into archaeology but been held back by physical or mental challenges, then this is the place for you. The SFAFS aims to be the most open and inclusive field school in the UK. Please get in touch and we will work with you to find ways for you to get involved. In addition to archaeological skills training, we aim to harness the heritage of Strata Florida to encourage physical and mental well-being.

QUALIFICATIONS: ACCREDITATION AND ARCHAEOLOGY SKILLS PASSPORT

Accreditation

SFAFS is now able to offer an accredited 4 week, 20 credit transferable module for level 4 students. This will deliver skills in field archaeology and excavation, knowledge of archaeological systems for processing and recording data, in addition to experience of a variety of activities and techniques applied on site. Teaching and training will be delivered by expert archaeologists and fully qualified site supervisors.

Archaeology Skills Passport

The Archaeology Skills Passport training pathway developed by BAJR (British Archaeological Jobs & Resources) is also available to gain recognition for the skills gained at the SFAFS. The Skills Passport lists many archaeological excavation and recording techniques and breaks them down into individual tasks and activities. When these elements have been completed in the field and observed by one of our fully qualified site supervisors, they will be signed off in your own Skills Passport. You will be given your passport on the first day of the course and the cost is included in the fees.

No matter how much excavation experience you have, there are many benefits to keeping a Skills Passport: it tracks all areas of practice – from core techniques to more complex skills - so it's ideal for those starting out on their career in archaeology. It's also great for those who already have fieldwork experience as existing skills can be built upon and further developed. The Skills Passport will be a valuable addition to your CV, offering proof of experience and competence to prospective employers and university departments. Alternatively, if you are attending for recreational purposes it is a great way of documenting your time with us!

The Archaeology Skills Passport is accepted and endorsed by the Archaeology Training Forum (ATF), the Chartered Institute for Archaeologists (CIfA) and a number of commercial archaeology units. Visit www.archaeologyskills.co.uk for more information.

WHAT CAN I DO ON MY DAY OFF?

Strata Florida is in the centre of Wales, a place of spiritual presence where many come to enjoy its peace and tranquillity. It was also a place of hospitality and the village of Pontrhydfendigaid has two public houses and a shop where you can stock up on things you might need during the week.

Both are in the heart of beautiful Welsh countryside. Immediately to the west lie the uplands of the Cambrian Mountains with forest tracks and paths for walkers and mountain bikers alike. To the east lies the world-famous Tregaron Bog, a National Nature Reserve, with board walks that take you right out onto the centre where the bird life is extraordinary. And on the edge of the bog, once a year in August, are the trotting races, much beloved by Welsh farming communities.

Just over the hills to the north are Hafod, a restored picturesque landscape, and nearby Devil's Bridge with its wonderful waterfalls and a light railway which runs down to Aberystwyth. To the south are the market towns of Tregaron and Lampeter and all around are small churches in lovely lowland settings.

Further afield are the coastal towns of Aberaeron and Aberystwyth with many attractions. Aberaeron is a wonderful Regency town and harbour with many good places to eat and admire the sea view. Over the summer too are festivals and events, many in the NT house and park of Llanerchaeron nearby. Aberystwyth is a sizeable university town and still has a pier!

For more information on what the local area has to offer visit www.discoverceredigion.wales and www.thecambrianmountains.co.uk
